The Problem

Over 200,000 people are serving life sentences in the United States.

To prove their readiness to rejoin society on parole, prisoners read books and educate themselves to prove to a judge that they can reform.

However, these resources are often sparse and attorneys have trouble helping their clients prove that change is possible.

We wanted to break a societal barrier. We believe that these people deserve a second chance.

The Solution

The Shelf is a secure, online website where attorneys can work with donors to get books to their incarcerated clients.
